The application shall contain a written description of the design and the list of the products in which the design is intended to be incorporated or to which it is intended to be applied.

If the object of the application is a two-dimensional design, a deferment of publication may be requested in accordance with Article 35. If there is a request for deferment and the representation of the design as specified in paragraph one cannot be supplied due to the nature of the design, instead a sample of the product in which the design is incorporated or to which it is applied may be deposited.

Article 27 - During the implementation of this Decree-Law, for the classification of the products in which the designs are incorporated or to which they are applied, use shall be made of the International Classification for Industrial Designs.

Multiple Applications

Article 28 - Application of several designs may be combined in one application. However, this possibility is subject to the condition, except in cases of ornamentation, that the products in which the designs are intended to be incorporated or to which they are intended to be applied all belong to the same sub-class or to the same set or composition of items.

The multiple application is subject to payment of an additional application fee to be specified in the Implementing Regulation, besides the fees referred in Article 26.

Right of Priority

Article 29 - Natural or legal persons or their legal successors in title who are nationals of any state party to the Paris Convention or if not nationals who are domiciled or have an active business in these states, shall enjoy a right of priority of six months from the date of filing a valid application at the authorized bodies of these states, for the purpose of filing an application for obtaining a registration certificate in Turkey in respect of the same design.

The priority rights not exercised within six months as stipulated in the first paragraph, are considered to be void.

When a priority is claimed within the provisions of the first paragraph, all applications filed and registration certificates obtained by third parties shall be declared invalid as from the date recognized as giving rise to priority right and for designs falling within the scope of protection.

Natural and legal persons who are nationals of states specified in the second paragraph of Article 2, shall enjoy priority rights as stipulated in this Article.

If a natural or a legal person who is a national of a state party to the Paris Convention has filed a valid application in a state not party to the Paris Convention he shall enjoy within the provisions of this Article priority right in respect of that filing.

A subsequent application for a design which was the subject of a previous first application, and which is filed in the same state, shall be considered as the first application for the purpose of determining priority. However, to be considered as the first application, at the date of the filing of the subsequent application, the previous application must have been withdrawn, abandoned and refused without being open to public inspection and have not left any right outstanding. The previous application may not thereafter serve as a basis for claiming a right of priority.

The officials of the exhibition held in Turkey, shall supply evidence specifying the name of the product, first display date and the official opening date along with photographs showing the product clearly and at its entirety at display.

For the products displayed in foreign countries, the evidence as specified in the third paragraph shall be supplied by the relevant authorities of the state concerned.

Where there are two or more applications for the same or similar product in which a filed or registered design is incorporated or to which it is applied, the applicant who first displayed the product and if displayed at the same time the one who filed his application first shall enjoy the right of priority.

Claiming and the Evidencing of Priority, Effect of Priority Right

Article 31 - The effects of the priority rights ensuing from Articles 29 to 30, shall arise as of the date of the Application for which the priority is declared.

An Applicant desiring to take advantage of his priority right shall file a declaration of priority with his application for a registered design. If the right of priority is not documented within the three months of the filing of the application the declaration of priority shall be considered invalid.

A priority granted with respect to an exhibition priority right does not extend the period of priority laid down in Article 29.

SECTION TWO Registration Procedures, Renewal, Opposition

Examination

Article 32 - The Institute shall refuse an application for registered design the subject and scope of which is not covered by the provisions of Article 3.

Institute shall examine whether the application complies with the conditions specified in Articles 26 and 28 and whether there are deficiencies. If the Institute concludes that there are no deficiencies, the application is accorded the date of filing as the date, hour and minute on which the application was filed originally at the Institute or at the body authorized as such by the Institute.

If a priority declaration has been filed, Institute shall undertake an examination in accordance with the provisions of Articles 29, 30 and 31.

Remedying Deficiencies

Article 33 - If deficiencies with respect to conditions of Article 26 and 28 are established, the Institute shall request the applicant to remedy these deficiencies.

If the applicant complies with the Institute's request and remedies within the prescribed time as specified in the Implementing Regulation the deficiencies which fall within the scope of the first paragraph of Article 26 the Institute shall allow as the date of filing the date on which the deficiencies are remedied.

If the applicant complies with the Institute's request and remedies within the prescribed time as specified in the Implementing Regulation the deficiencies which fall within the scope of the first paragraph of Article 26 the Institute shall allow as the date of filing the date on which the deficient application was originally filed.

If the deficiencies established in pursuant to first paragraph are not remedied in accordance with the provisions of this Decree-Law and are not remedied within the prescribed period, the Institute shall refuse the application.

Failure to satisfy the requirements concerning the claim to priority shall result only in the loss of the right of priority for the application.

Registration and Publication

Article 34 - An application which has been accorded a date of filing in accordance with the provisions of Articles 32 and 33 shall be entered in the Design Register.

A design recorded in the Register shall be published in the relevant Bulletin with the following particulars:

An application containing a request for deferment of publication shall be entered in the register after it has been awarded a date of filing; but neither the representation of the design nor the contents of the file relating to the application shall be open public inspection.

The office shall publish in the related bulletin a mention of the deferment of the publication of the registered design. The mention shall include information on the identity of the right holder of the registered design, the date of filing of the application, the length of period for which deferment has been requested and any other particulars prescribed by the Implementing Regulation.

At the expiry of the period of deferment, or at any earlier date on request by the right holder, the Institute shall open to public inspection the file relating to the application and all entries in the register, and shall publish the registered design. However, before publication, the publication fee and in the case of a multiple application the additional application fees should be paid, and a representation of the design suitable for reproduction has to be filed if at original application a sample of the product in which the design is incorporated or has been applied has been deposited. If these conditions are not complied with within the period specified in the Implementing Regulation, the registered design shall be deemed from the outset not to have had the effects specified in this Decree-Law.

In the case of multiple applications, the provisions of this Article may be applied to only some of the designs included therein.

The institution of legal proceedings on the basis of a registered design during the period of deferment of publication shall be subject to the condition that the information contained in the register and in the file relating to the application has been communicated to the person against whom the action is brought.

References in this Decree-Law to the date of publication of the registered design subject to deferment of publication, to mean the date on which the Institute performs the act referred to in the fourth paragraph.

The request for renewal shall be submitted and the renewal fee paid within a period of six months before the last day of the month in which protection ends. In failing this deadline, the request may be submitted within a further period of six months from the day referred to in the previous sentence upon payment of an additional fee.

Renewal shall take effect from the day following the date on which the existing registration expires. The renewal shall be recorded in the Register.

The provisions of this Decree-Law shall cease to produce effect for designs which have not been renewed within six months after the expiry of the period of protection.

Opposition

Article 37 - Natural or legal persons or related professional organizations may submit to the Institute in compliance with the procedures prescribed in Implementing Regulation a declaration of invalidity of a Registered Design after its publication.

The application for a declaration of invalidity explaining clearly the objections must be filed in a written statement within six months after publication and the fee prescribed in the Implementing Regulation must be paid before it can be deliberated upon. Institute may request additional documents, evidences and justifications to be complied within the period to be prescribed by the Institute.

The opposition with its justification shall be communicated to the holder of the design right enabling him to submit his views and observations.

Examination

Article 38 - During the examination of the application for a declaration of invalidity, the Institute when it deems fit and as often as necessary may request the written observations of the parties and communicate to the parties involved such observations and objections submitted by the parties.

The Institute's decisions, reached during the examination of the opposition, with respect to the procedural deficiencies and the remedies concerning the deficiencies shall have effect to nullify the administrative procedures pertaining to the awarding of the design certificate or to returning to the stage where the deficiencies have occurred and of renewing the procedures from this stage.

The acceptance of an opposition filed within the provisions of subparagraphs (a) and (b) of the first paragraph of Article 43, shall result in the invalidation of the Design Certificate and the entering into force of the provisions of Article 45.

The invalidation of the Design Certificate shall be published in the related bulletin.
